

Last Chance for Eden

Film Showing and Discussion

with Director, Lee Mun Wah

Tuesday February 17, 2009 • 6:30 - 9:30 pm

Last Chance for Eden is a documentary about nine men and women discussing issues of racism and sexism and the impact of society's stereotypes on their lives in the workplace, in their personal relationships, and in their families and communities. In the course of their dialogue, they also explore the differences and similarities between racism and sexism - an area that has seldom been researched, but has heatedly become a very important issue needing to be understood and dealt with. Join us for a community film showing and discussion with the Director of the film, Lee Mun Wah (also the Director of the film, The Color of Fear).

Location: Lane Community College

Center for Meeting & Learning

4000 East 30th Avenue Eugene, OR 97405

Site Phone: 541-463-5585

Fee: $5 (Proceeds will be donated to a local charity group)

Contacts for more information: Elizabeth Sadhu, elizabethsadhu@yahoo.com or 541-914-3420 and

Dennis Carr carrd@lanecc.edu

Anationally-acclaimed lecturer and Master Diversity & Communications Trainer, Lee Mun Wah is a Chinese American community therapist, documentary filmmaker, Special Education educator, performing poet, Asian folk teller and author. He is also the Director of StirFry Seminars & Consulting, which works with corporations, government agencies, educational institutions, and social agencies to facilitate diversity issues through healthy and authentic cross cultural relationships.

Hosted by Lane County Human Resource Association and Lane Community College