Accomplishment Description:

The NIDA computer based trainers were installed at the RTS Bldg. for the Aviation Maintenance Programs. This classroom was set up with computer managed training consoles to teach the fundamental concepts and theories of aviation maintenance. This NIDA lab provided a platform to transform the curriculum from course-based to a learning-module base. This new learning environment has increase both efficiency (time) and effectiveness (learning more in a flexible environment). This lab is a major component in increasing student FTE and maintaining and reducing personnel costs.
