

An Unfinished Conversation

~Facilitated by Lee Mun Wah~

So often, we hesitate to begin a conversation with someone who is different from ourselves because we are afraid we might say or do something offensive or inappropriate.

At this special free evening event, Lee Mun Wah, a community therapist, educator, and documentary filmmaker, will share with us some ways to begin that journey through what he calls "An Unfinished Conversation."

Friday, February 24, 2006

6:30pm - 9:30pm

Featuring a film screening of "Last Chance for Eden" a documentary about eight men and women discussing issues of racism and sexism and the impact of society's stereotypes on their lives in the workplace, in their personal relationships, and in their families and communities.

This Event is Open to the Public and Attendance is Free!

For more info: 510.204.8840 ext. 109 or lyla@stirfryseminars.com

Film Facilitation Training – February 25-26, 2006

8:30am-5:00pm each day

Lee Mun Wah's films, Last Chance for Eden and The Color of Fear, are excellent tools which can help begin difficult conversations. A two-day public training will be offered at Pacific University's downtown Eugene campus to teach skills that will help you introduce and facilitate dialogues around these films and issues of diversity.

••• To Register Click Here > Registration Form \(pdf\)

Center for Meeting and Learning (Building 19) Rm 226
4000 East 30th Ave., Eugene, OR 97405

Made possible by The Reading Together Project and the Interim Diversity Coordinator at Lane Community College

If you need disability accommodations in order to attend or participate in this event, please contact Disability Services (541) 463-5150 (voice) or 463-3079 (TTY) at least one week in advance.

www.stirfryseminars.com