

The Reading Together Project, in conjunction with the 2005-06 theme,
Circling Home: Stories and Sustainable Communities, presents:

ENERGY TO CHANGE

THURS NOV. 3, 10 am-12pm
CML 104 (BUILDING 19)

What kinds of stories have we been telling ourselves that keep directing us to deplete finite resources? Why do we keep repeating these stories in the face of increasingly disastrous consequences? We can change those stories and hence change our communities. What ways is Lane changing these stories? What else is possible? What can we, as individuals, do?

Please join a panel of campus and community experts in a discussion which explores options for change. Panelists will include: Roger Ebbage: Director of Lane's Energy Management Program; Anna Scott: Lane's Energy Analyst; Jennifer Hayward: Sustainability Coordinator; Tammie Stark: Rainwater Utilization and Water Education specialist, and Jim Maloney: EWEB Energy Resource Project Manager

People are welcome to come late or leave early as schedule permits.

If you need disability accommodations in order to attend or participate in this event, please contact Disability Services (541) 463-5150 (voice) or 463-3079 (TTY) at least one week in advance.
